History

A Date with Yesterday

The grandeur of the history of Brookneal High School sheds a grandeur upon ourselves, the members of the graduating class of 1948. We feel that we have a share in the largest accomplishments of the past. A date with yesterday through these pages of my diary will enable us to renew our relationship with the past school days.

The first entry (I see), was September, 1937. It reads, "Dear Diary: Today is a day always to be remembered—first day at school. I am scared and want to cry but I guess I am too grown-up now. My classmates are Franklin Foster, Fred Daniel, Billy Rudder, John Foster, Peggy Rose Anderson. They are a frightened looking group too. Some of them even brought their mamas to school. I don't know why. Signed, Serena Seckman." The following postscript is added, "Miss Louise Herderson, my teacher, wrote this for me."

As I scan the pages, I see that in the second grade Miss Alma McIvor, now Mrs. Bomar, was our teacher. We were a large class and our ambition was to be promoted upstairs—the third grade room was upstairs then.

I find that we were promoted that year but not very far—the third and fourth grade rooms were moved downstairs. Mrs. Pearl Foster was our teacher, and there were over thirty in the class, Virginia Evans, Captola Berkley, and Lester Smith enrolled at this time.

Glennie Cunningham joined us in the fourth grade with Miss Cardwell as our teacher. We had a large class of thirty-one members.

We really made the leap upstairs when we reached the fifth grade. (This sentence catches my eye), "At last, we feel that we have learned to walk." Our teacher, Miss Virginia North, now Mrs. Buckley, is proud of all twenty-six of us.

Much credit for our present knowledge is due Mrs. Richard Mays, our sixth grade teacher, and Mrs. Barlow, our seventh grade teacher.

On this page dated September 1943, I find we have been labeled "Freshmen." Mrs. Elsie Payne Guthrie was our home-room teacher and Mr. James Strickler, principal, was our sponsor. Again we were a "lost" group trying to learn how to change classes and how to study only four subjects. Some of us even made the basketball, baseball and softball teams that year. Fewer of us made the Honor Roll. A picnic to Falling River in the spring was our entertainment.

In our Sophomore year, I have one disappointment recorded. The moveable desks that we had looked forward to for so long were nailed to the floor just before we moved into the room. Mrs. Myrtle Straw was our home-room teacher and sponsor.

As I review the events of our third year in high school, my diary becomes a recording of many pleasant memories. The Junior-Senior banquet and dance in the school gym, following the Wishing Well theme, was the highlight of the year. Then there was our trip to Lynchburg one night just before school was out. We had supper together, then we went to see a baseball game. At commencement, we took part in the candlelight ceremony at which time the Seniors left us the lighted torch—reminding us that we were to be the next graduating class of B. H. S. Mrs. R. G. Gardner was our class sponsor and Mrs. B. G. Fore our home-room teacher.

Now to the final pages, I read, "Dear Diary—Now is the hour when our high school days are no more. Of all the years, our Senior year with our special privileges was the best. We won't forget the privilege of leading the lunch line after 'The seventh grade has gone.'" Then at Christmas, Santa Claus came from the North Pole to B. H. S. on an airplane. Following his visit we had a Christmas party on Friday night before Christmas at the school, sponsored by the S. C. A. Then we began the new year with the basketball spirit. The "Indians" as the teams were called, played in the tournament semi-finals. The games furnished us much fun, especially the bus rides. Then in April we gave two performances of our play entitled "Here Comes Charlie." If Ethel Trent had not joined our class this last year, giving us an enrollment of ten, I don't know what we would have done for a "Mrs. Smythe Kersey." Even the pet gold fish, "Shadrack Meshach Abednego," will live in our memories, especially when we see carrots. The three curtain calls made us feel like real Barter Theatre actors.

On April 16, the Junior class entertained us with a very lovely banquet and dance in the school cafeteria and gymnasium. The Indian Village theme was used and it was really a "Heap Big Pow Wow."

The spring music festival was an entertaining feature of the year. Even our work on our annual, MEMORIAE GRATAE, was fun. Volleyball, baseball, and softball games helped make this last year full of school activities.

We gave up two "would be" Seniors, Carolyn Holt and Captola Berkley, to the home-making profession.

Our high school faculty included Mr. R. G. Gardner, principal, Mrs. R. G. Gardner, Mrs. Myrtle Straw, Mr. William Kirby, Jr., Mrs. Elsie Payne Guthrie, sponsor, and Mrs. B. G. Fore, co-sponsor.

And now, as we think of our school days—in our memories we shall always keep a date—a date with yesterday.

Signed: SERENA SECKMAN.

Prophecy

A Glimpse into Tomorrow

Being class prophet for the Senior Class of 1948 of Brookneal High School, has endowed upon me certain prophetic qualities, enabling me to take a glimpse into tomorrow. So that I may share this glimpse with you, I have brought a movie reel entitled, "Time Marches On." As the reel unravels, a preview of coming attractions, starring the members of the Class of 1948, will be made.

I see New York City. I see Broadway and I see Fred Daniel. The bobby-soxers, seeking his autograph have almost hidden him from view, but I'd know Fred anywhere. He sure seems happy and no wonder! just telling those funny stories has made him one of the greatest comedians of the day. Just think of making a fortune by making people laugh!

Change in scene takes us to Radio City and look who is broadcasting. Mr. District Attorney Franklin Foster, Jr. Frank has just won world-wide publicity and fame in his conviction of Superman as Public Enemy No. 1. While we're in New York let's turn to the Sports World. Oh boy! at last I'm playing baseball against the Giants. I'd sure like to see the rest of this game but time must go on. I knew I wouldn't need Geometry to be a success.

Now to the movie world. Look at the name in the bright lights—Evans and Ladd. It seems that Virginia has given Veronica a back seat. The film is entitled, "Bill, My Boy."

As we move from this city, I see a huge ship somewhere in the Atlantic. As the picture gets clearer, I recognize the center of attraction as our Lester Smith. It seems that he is the only rich bachelor on board and that it's Leap Year at that! His "Falling River Fishery" sure put him in the money.

The reel has broken. Oh, yes, now we are in Brookneal. The latest construction in the city has been a new hospital and the superintendent of the nurses is now going up to the entrance. It is Serena Seckman and she has gotten the internees supervised already.

The teaching shortage is still a critical problem, I see, as we find two new members on the Brookneal High School faculty. John Foster is "teaching" basketball and Miss Peggy Rose Anderson is "coaching" Latin. They may make a team yet. In the reel, we see the final of the tournament game and Brookneal wins over New London. Coach Foster is now congratulating his team and still holding on to that hat. Miss Anderson and her star pupil, Zann, are furnishing some cheers. They are now rendering "Big Dog—Little Dog, etc."

The medal of award for scientific service is to be awarded by Popular Science, we hear, to Ethel Trent. She is to be credited with giving the little animal, commonly called "jitterbug," a scientific name. Her research work in Chemistry was not in vain.

The news in the social world at present centers around Miss Cunningham whom we know as Glennie. Glennie is seen entering Brookneal Hotel with her escort, where a banquet is being given in her honor by the Style Promoters of the city. Glennie has just won first place in a national Designer's contest with her dress design named "The Newer New Look."

My friends and classmates, this happens to be a very appropriate place for the reel to break. As time marches on, may our glimpse into tomorrow be one of hopes fulfilled and happiness attained.

Last Will and Testament

Now is the hour when we, the members of the Senior Class of 1948 of Brookneal High School, being of sound mind and judgment, do hereby make and declare this to be our last will and testament. This valuable document, duly executed and signed, is as follows:

To our beloved teachers we bequeath our sincere affection and heartiest appreciation for the wise and helpful guidance they have given us throughout our high school career.

To our successors, the Junior Class, we leave the opportunity to follow in our footsteps. May your "Senior" privileges be more than your "Junior" ones.

To the Sophomore Class, we bequeath our pleasant dispositions.

We leave to the Freshman Class all the good grades that we made. May they profit from this generous gift!

To various individuals we make these important and generous gifts, trusting that they may be duly appreciated.

To Jimmy Straw, the Senior Beta Club members will a little automatic car in which to visit "Patsey, the Blonde"—Billy Rudder excluded.

Virginia Evans leaves her monopoly on the mirror in the Home Economics cottage to Emily Johnson.

To Zann Woodson, Peggy Rose Anderson leaves her "punctuality." If you don't know what this means, Zann, ask Mr. Webster.

Serena Seckman bequeaths her acting ability to her sister, Connell, with instructions that "actions speak louder than words."

John Foster leaves his Chemistry lab book to Buddy Jarvis, hoping that he will discover new atomic "energy"—especially the energy.

Lester Smith leaves his "taxi" privilege to W. C. Henderson so that the Seniors of next year won't have to take up walking.

Ethel Trent leaves her ability to do her best to those students on the "E" list.

Fred Daniel leaves his errors on third base of the baseball team, to Paige Henderson. He is sure they won't look like errors then.

Billy Rudder leaves his Geometry book to his cousin Wallace, with the inscription, "Good as new—never has been used."

To Ellen Pillow, Glennie Cunningham leaves her ability to get basketball scores next year, especially on the boys' team.

Franklin Foster leaves the record "Miss You" to a certain Sophomore. Guess who?

We appoint our sponsors as sole executors of this, the last will and testament of the Class of '48. Sad but true, time destines these bequests for you.

(Signed) JOHN FOSTER.
